This virtual seminar series on career development will be hosted via Zoom and open to all CCNY students and beyond. Our speakers and panelists are women faculty and professionals with STEM backgrounds working at different institutions and companies all over the country. They will share their personal experiences and give audience a glimpse of different career paths in STEM fields, key skills required, industry trends, and so on. Participants will have the opportunity to access a Linked-In group account to stay connected with speakers and other students.
