To whom it may concern,

I hope this letter finds you well. I'm writing to express my enthusiastic support for Prof. Sara Woolley who is seeking a promotion. She has consistently served as an exceptional role model for her students, both in the past and in the present.

Throughout my time as one of her students, I have witnessed her outstanding performance, proficiency, and dedication in teaching and mentoring. She consistently organized and delivered high-quality class content promptly, offering a balanced workload and purposeful assignments that contributed to the improvement and excellence of her students in the field. Furthermore, she adeptly managed her time to assist and impart knowledge to students who required additional support in the subject during the semesters.

Apart from benefiting from her teaching, I was mentored by her during the Undergraduate Research Program and Senior Project. Under her guidance, illustration was integrated into a complex STEM research project, fostering teamwork among COMD students and faculty. Additionally she provided invaluable insights and management advice while aiding my senior project, generously sharing her prior works to learn from, including "Wonder Woman, Warbringer: The Graphic Novel" demonstrating her collaborative efforts with fellow professionals and walked me through some of her amazing process of "Pirate Queens" which was in production by the time.

In conclusion, my experience under her mentorship as an alumna has proven to be enriching and motivating, significantly contributing to my career advancement and goal achievement. Thus, my conviction remains unwavering that recognizing Prof. Wolley's well-deserved promotion will undoubtedly bring a positive contribution to both the student body and the faculty on campus.

Sincerely,

Jennie
