

What does a perfect world mean to you ?

In a perfect world there isn't any cold weather, that kind of weather were your attempt at wearing a jacket gets thugged open by the wind, nor is there that brutal warm weather where you would wish to be walking around in a fish tank. In this perfect world being a kid doesn't end at the age of thirteen where just because the word teen is placed in your age. In this kind of world your age doesn't set what you can't or can do. In this world you can do what you believe reflects who you are and these characteristics you have don't seem to matter. In this world perfection lives in everybody, and accepted by everyone.
