

“This Lime-Tree Bower My Prison” By Samuel Taylor

Outline:

I. Intro

A. Opener- Throughout life, we have all experienced the loneliness of being excluded at some point or another.

B. Thesis- In “This Lime-Tree Bower My Prison,” Samuel Taylor Coleridge shows how his experience with this resentful jealousy matured into a selfless brotherly love and the acceptance of the beneficial effects some amount of denial can have.

II. Body

A. Jealousy- The distant jealousy Samuel Taylor shows through the idea of others lifestyle.

B. Denial- How we move through life in denial of lol out surrounds because we are stuck in our own thoughts and opinions.

C. Acceptance- Something in your surrounds created this idea of understanding and acceptance.

III. Conclusion

A. Thesis - In “This Lime-Tree Bower My Prison,” Samuel Taylor Coleridge shows how overall the amount of denial he had existences was due to the the jealousy and acceptance of it that played out in his life.

B. Bigger meaning- What we are surrounded by today, and what makes up our life is what created this sense of in denial to believe beyond that meaning.

C. Closure- Overall, society today is made up of different perspectives and opinions to the way life should be lived, which is what makes us all different in our own state of mind.