According to Leonie in her 10 wearable fashion trends that will be huge in 2023 “Super strips” will be one of the wearable fashion trends. As we move into the new year, we can recognize trends that have moved with us. Strips are one of them, referencing to the pictures above we can see strips being seen in 2022 Netflix hit series Wednesday. Her aesthetic is very much black and white, strips fit her character very well. We can also recognize the strips come in different shapes, sizes, and formation. One interesting thing about strips is that it can move throughout the seasons from fall to winter. The print can transfer to all types of textiles, top and bottom weight fabrics. The diversity of strips is a great way to categorized it as a classic trend that will not be fading no time soon.
