What Designer am I?

Where I come from?

Growing up in Brooklyn, New York, I was always surrounded by art. You will always find me with a sketch pad or an iPad illustrating something.

I graduated from BMCC with an associate's degree in Multimedia Arts.

Now, I am studying Communication Design emphasizing in Illustration in City Tech. However, I have also been learning a mix of other designs.

The rhinocelephippo is a mega fauna that is the hybrid of the rhinoceros, the elephant, and the hippopotamus. It can be found on the savannas of the Sub-Saharan Africa. It is a herbivore that is between 5.3 and 6.3 feet and weighs about 4,600 pounds. Their incisors and canines are large, complex, and tusk-like, which are perfect for chewing the plants that comprise their diets. The rhinocelephippo has a lifespan of 60 to 70 years old and they have a gestation period of 22 months; that is almost 2 years!

The rhinocelephippo is a very intelligent animal with a brain that is over 10 pounds. It can show many expressions, from grief to compassion. This creature also knows how to cooperate, communicate, mimic, use tools, and is self-aware. The rhinocelephippo is a very patient and creative animal. However, if one were to disrespect the animal, it will turn from passive to aggressive rather quickly. So, if we respect the rhinocelephippo, we will not have to confront its wrath.

Where I am now?

Right now, I am doing illustrations, both digitally and traditionally. I do character designs as a pastime.
When it comes to digital illustrations,
I do it on the iPad with an app called procreate

Where I am going

In the future, I would want to work a Multimedia Design Company or an Animation Company. No matter where I choose to go, I want to fulfill my life goal of creating and illustrating.

Thank you!
