- Terrible writing/grammar
- Bad story telling

Bio

I am a young creative person working as a freelance writer. One of the traits I described myself to be is persistent. I am growing tired working freelance and wish to settle for a career path that is much more stable and more of my preference in the creative working field. I am immensely experienced in advanced fictional writing and enjoy it as a hobby and career. I like to share them and display them on my blog online.
