To Whom It May Concern,

I have had the immense pleasure of working as Yelena Funk's supervisor for over 7 years at the Medical Arts Pavilion of Dr. Susan Levit. She was a responsible, compassionate and, most importantly, incredibly bright medical professional who provided a great help to me and others in our office.

Because of the small office atmosphere, she was able to observe and learn from those around her, something she was always incredibly eager to do, and so although her official position was that of a medical assistant, she often went above and beyond her duties and performed tasks ranging from performing EKGs to educating patients about caring for their conditions.

She was a meticulous worker who took immense pride in doing everything to the best of her abilities. Patients often asked for Yelena by name because she had a reputation for really taking the time to listen to their ailments instead of just hurrying through the vital sign procedures. I encouraged her to pursue a nursing degree and am happy she did so. Her talent for working with people is one that deserved to be taken to the next level.

I volunteered to write this recommendation for her because I am very confident that Yelena is not only an amazing co-worker but also an amazing person who has the skills and work ethic to add value wherever she works. Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
ANDREW L. WEISS, M.D.
