

My internship doesn't begin until February 10 at We Did It. They're kind of like Kickstarter for non-profits from what I can tell. I'm glad I got them considering they were probably my favorite interview I had of all 10 jobs I sat with during Brooklyn Tech Triangle's Speed Interview event. I'm looking forward to seeing how things work in the real world.

I'm not sure what to really expect and I'm nervous a bit. Especially since Wordpress was mentioned....oh Wordpress....not my favorite to work with at all. But maybe I'll find out tips on how to navigate better around the system.

I've noticed quite a bit of jobs that ask for "graphic designers" but expect them to know Wordpress which is more web design. Makes me glad I chose web as my module and I do love to do both. But it also makes me wonder what those who chose the graphic design module do when Wordpress isn't even part of their curriculum. My internship's requirements asked this and so did another one that I had come across.

So according to a word count tool, I'm only at 190 and counting of course. Well, I set up a calendar for myself for the first time ever because I have too much scheduled at different times this semester and this doesn't even include the fact that I haven't gone to Portfolio or Senior Project yet. To be continued!
