To Whom It May Concern:

I am applying for the Graphic Design Internship position listed on your website firstborn.com. You may possibly be looking for someone who can understand intricate tasks, and incorporate fresh, new and exciting ideas in complex situations. I have experience working with design programs such as Adobe Photoshop, Illustrator, and InDesign. Although majority of my experience are school-based projects, I have designed flyers for a church youth convention and an authorized cellphone retailer called Globo Smartcard. With my expertise in Graphic Design, I am hoping to effectively utilize my skills from various positions in the course of my academic career to help expand your company.

As a Graphic Design Major at New York City College of Technology I am looking forward to owning my own franchise of original designed clothing after graduation. From the classes I have attended I believe I have the ability to develop original, fresh/new, and authentic designs. My contributions to First Born will be to help make the company reach more people by using all networks of social media. By doing so, I will also incorporate my design as a way of show casing what the company is all about.

Being a part of the First Born Company, I will improve my communication, writing, design, team work and organization skills, which are essential in this fast-paced environment. Given my skill set in graphic design, teamwork, and organization I believe I am the candidate of your choice.

Sincerely,
