

Jihane Taifi,

Your paper briefly explains the story well. I actually got interested into reading more as I was reading but I do feel like you could summarize it a bit much more. Aside from that, you have a great strength in telling the reader of your paper what it is that you want to add or change in the film. I got confused when you were trying to explain what the Prince was forcing the girl to do with the cross. I assumed it was to take care of the cross but wasn't sure because you then said he wasn't even a believer so why is he making her take care of it - if that is what you were implying. One last thing you should watch out for is grammar. Overall, you have a great paper.
