

Time Capsule

by:Julio Lopez

Dear end of semester me, I know we made it through this tough and challenging time. We worked so hard and tried our best to complete these assignments on time. Although we started the first two weeks a little bit off track the first two weeks we'll slowly start adjusting into this college lifestyle. Truly what I want us to accomplish is, not only that A we're gonna work hard for, but also to take what we learned in this course and apply it into the outside world in a way where it teaches others. I want us to perfect the skills of multitasking. This will be very important for us to learn because I believe with this skill, we will be able to complete everything on time. Lastly, dear future me, can you please manage your time wisely and create a schedule if you have too. Having assignments is not fun, trust me you'll regret it. Overall my future goal is to complete my degree and work in the field I truly worked for.

The image I chose shows how I'm feeling now and what I would like to feel at the end of the semester.

End of course respond:

I like the positive mindset we had throughout this semester. I tried my hardest not to let my assignments pill up, but sometimes I let the worst get to me. You said you wanted us to learn how to multitask, but I realized that isn't the best skill to learn, where multitasking leads us to make mistakes such as incomplete thoughts when it comes to writing. I will most definitely use every proper technique and the lesson I have learned throughout this course, not only for me but also to help out others. Creating that schedule helped me keep myself organized, which led me to a successful, stress-free course, at least for the most part. The most important thing I remembered and will never forget is when you said the word "gonna" in your writing pieces; I learned my lesson. As for that A you wanted to receive, I'm not quite sure, but I do know that whatever score we received, we shouldn't be too worried because we gave it our all. As to what the next chapter has in store for us, we will have to wait and see.
